Change doesn't have to occur all at once or in great magnitude. To create real change in the world it will take everyone working to create their own small measures of change. This can be done by spreading small measures of love and kindness to all. I for one try to do my best to serve my community and those in need. I do my part through community service and advocacy.

Currently, I hold the honor of being a Holocaust Ambassador for my school. Through it I participated in workshops to help spread Holocaust awareness to my peers. The Holocaust survivors are dying out and we must carry on their stories. I want the world to learn from the past so we won't be doomed to repeat the past once more. Currently, my fellow Ambassadors and I are planning a Holocaust presentation where we will have a Holocaust survivor come to our school and give his testimony. I feel that providing this event to my schoolmates is such a rare and poignant experience that will linger with them forever. On top of my ambassadorship, I have also made a short film entitled "Remembrance." My film won first place in the Nova Holocaust Reflection Contest. I am so honored to be able to create some advocacy and hopefully change some hearts. I hope that through my film we can all rise above evil and spread kindness to one another. I believe that through the education of our world's past mistakes it will help deter the same ones from being repeated in the future.

Furthermore, I am extensively involved in many community service events. Currently, I have nearly 500 community service hours. As National Honor Society's Vice President of my school, I've had the honor of creating change through our community events. Our biggest event so far was a color run we did for Project Upstart. Project Upstart is an organization that aids the homeless and underprivileged students at my school as well as others. They help kids be able to take part in so many memorable high school experiences such as prom and our senior breakfast. We chose this origination to raise money for because some many students miss out on the events and the memories because of financial difficulties. Our color run was extremely successful. We raised a total of $2,500. Other service events I have orchestrated in my school are supply drives and food drives. My work for aiding those in need, especially the elderly, has been rewarded with my Silver Knight nomination. My Silver Knight category is Social Studies and my project is called Holidays for Seniors. Basically, during holidays, I made crafts to distribute to those living in nursing homes. During the Christmas season I made reindeers out of chocolate and candy canes and distributed them to about 50 seniors in the nursing home. Some of them said they seldom had visitors so it is heartwarming to know that my project brought them a little joy in their lives.

In the future, I'm still not entirely certain what career I want to pursue, but I know whatever it maybe I will do my very best to be a tikkun olam, a repairer of creation. I want to ensure that I will leave the Earth a nicer place than when I was born. As of now, I hope to pursue a career in the FBI. I feel like this will be the best way to do my part in changing the world and encouraging kindness.

To Whom It May Concern,

Madison Creevay has been a Holocaust Memorial Miami Beach Ambassador since December, 2019. She has attended all of our workshops to learn more about the Holocaust and how to become an advocacy leader in her school and community.

Madison, along with four of her schoolmates and fifty other high school students, forfeited three Sundays, to step up and volunteer to bring a quality Holocaust advocacy program to Barbara Goleman Senior High School, in the spring. Madison stepped up as the Barbara Goleman HS point person and has risen to be a leader with her schoolmates. The students are planning a schoolwide assembly to advocate for Holocaust education at their school.

Madison is attentive, energetic, and has exhibited excellent leadership skills in the planning stages of the advocacy program she will implement at Barbara Goleman. She is an impressive young woman who possesses much potential as a future leader to assure that tolerance and acceptance overwhelms the horrible consequences of hatred and bigotry.

Besides being a stellar student, Madison is making a difference in her school and for her community. The Graham Companies award will be quite well-spent to include Madison Creevay as a worthy recipient.

Sincerely,

Jack Rosenbaum

To Whom It May Concern,

I am privileged to write a letter in support of my former student, Madison Creevay. Madison was a student in my English Honors class during her sophomore year, and she always maintained a high grade-point average. Throughout her tenure at Barbara Goleman Senior High School, I have had the pleasure of witnessing Madison's tremendous growth and development. This development came not only in the area of academic achievement and leadership, but in maturity and character as well.

Madison is an accomplished young lady who always puts forth maximum effort and strives for excellence by taking numerous honors and Advanced Placement (AP) courses. Additionally, she is enrolled in the National Security Magnet Program. Madison has always earned accolades from her teachers since she always strives to do her best and composes herself as a model student.

Not only does Madison challenge herself academically, but she is also involved in many clubs and activities in the school. She is the Treasurer of the Youth Crime Watch, Class Director of the Key Club, and has served as Vice President of her Freshman class, President of her Sophomore class, and Treasurer of her Junior class. She is a member of the Future Educators of America, Mu Alpha Theta, Drama club, Vice-President of the Young Republicans' club, Vice-President of Membership for the National Honor Society, and Historian of the United Students for Political Activism. In addition to participating in an abundance of clubs, this busy young lady also devotes time for sports. She was part of the volleyball team and currently is the Tennis Team Captain. Despite the many responsibilities she has and the daunting hours she contributes to these endeavors, Madison also finds time to participate in community events and has volunteered in various campaigns for local politicians, events for senior citizens, community events, including food and supply drives after natural disasters. She has an impressive 495 community service hours.

I hold Madison Creevay in the highest esteem and recommend her for any endeavor she is seeking. It is not often that one meets someone so young, but so focused, dedicated, well-rounded, and hardworking. I know that she will soar even higher as she continues to work towards her goals. I whole-heartedly support and recommend her for any program or academic institution she wishes to join.

Sincerely,

Mercedes Paigo

To whom it may concern:

This letter serves as my official recommendation for Madison Creevey. In the time that I have known her, Madison has earned her spot amongst the hardest worker math student I have ever encountered. Her attitude towards math and school alike are remarkable. It was her persistent in working out problems repeatedly that lead to her success in my AP Calculus AB.

Madison has shown great enthusiasm for learning new concepts. Her desire to pass the AP Calculus AB was evident by her consistent attendance in tutoring, Saturday sessions and morning questions that help her understand Calculus concepts.

It is her genuine curiosity that motivates her. While some students are quick to give up, Madison has demonstrated that she does not quit. Persistent and a hard worker, she follows her goals out to completion, working up until the very last minute if needed.

In addition of being a well-rounded scholar, Madison is highly respectful towards her teachers and her peers.

It is my belief that her grades thus far are only a preview of her abilities, so much more waits to be seen. There is no doubt in my mind that she will be an asset to society, which is why I STRONGLY recommend Madison for the Graham Companies Scholarship.

Sincerely yours
Lilia Quinonez
